Grande Prairie Ball Team Defeat Hythe Sunday By 8 to 2

C. Innan was on the mound for Hythe till about the middle of the first stanza, when he was relieved by Wainwright.

Bill Lea, who hurried for Grande Prairie, pitched one of the best games of his career.

Watkins also turned in a fine game but his support was ragged, while Lea was backed up by a hundred per cent.

Hythe started out well in the first frame when they put two men across the plate while the locals tallied one. While Watkins pitched a good consistent game during his six and a half innings, his team failed to count after the first inning.

Hythe's Grande Prairie boys were on their toes all the way and served up a snappy brand of ball, much to the delight of the local fans.

Lea struck out nine men and Watkins four.

Timely Hints From the Beaverlodge Sub-Station

By W. D. Albright
"IT IS A PLEASURE AS WELL AS A DUTY TO SERVE"

When wheat prices amount most of us lose our heads. When depression ensues we begin looking for them.

Spring growth in the North is often tantalizingly slow but the crops have an astonishing capacity to stand by for long periods, taking advantage of good growing weather when it comes.

Shagreened construction easily becomes a habit so that after much building one finds himself with nothing but shagreened contraptions. What is worth building is generally worth building well, and on good foundations.

On many of the acres where western rye grass was sown on the substation stray plants of vetch have since shown up and have had to be forked out. They stand a deal of disfigure.

Wheat made a dead set on round crops. A patch of ground seeded 1936 to Alpha wheat clover with a view to seed production was tentatively clipped on certain of the knolls. Wheat worms will eat. If the crop stand is sparse they will eat it all.

Patience, patience, and then more patience is needed in farming. To see grain is a dry seedbed and then wait.

Bed Bugs

A correspondent whose address is withheld asks for a means of ridding a house of bed bugs.

A fragment of an article that appeared a few years ago in Timely Hints is available on request. It discusses the habits of the vampire, the bed bug, etc. A simple one is superheating to 125° or 130° F. for from five to eight hours. The bugs will be killed at 118° but it is necessary to allow a margin to ensure that floors and exposed walls reach the desired temperature. Stuff all cracks to confine the heat; look well to the floors and chimneys, choose a calm, warm day and then take plenty of time to raise the temperature—half a day to get it up and half a day to hold it. The first part is the more difficult.

Before heating, examine carefully to remove wax or anything that might be injured or exploded by the heat. It would be well to remove gasoline lamps. Do not use a coal-oil stove to heat the house. The coal-oil stove may smoke furiously. Use wood or coal stoves or furnaces. Remember that the cooling temperature will be far higher than the heating temperature, so be careful that ignition of inflammable material does not occur there. Watch the thermometer. Wrap up the house in blankets when entering to replenish the fire. The writer has used this method in other cases and has been successful. It is a trouble saving the smoking of the coal-oil stove, against which warning is given.

Celery

I would like information on celery raising. (Mrs. J. C. C. Sexsmith, Alta.)

As in the experience success depends largely on the season. In wet seasons little culture seems to be the more satisfactory. The plants are grown in trenches culture is probably better. Plants are spaced about ten inches apart and set out in early June. They may be blanched with soil, boards, clean hay or paper collars. We generally use boards or soil. The blanching process will take about four to six weeks, depending upon the method and growing conditions. The plants are watered as they need it until about mid-July, when the supply is usually broken off, though a watered supply would doubtless be better for a suspension of the water. ### Grass For Low Alkaline Areas

"I have some low, wet, slightly alkaline places in my fields. What grass do you think would be best? I would like to see it producing hay or pasture."—A. D. Chou, Hills, Alta.

Ans.: Based on experiments conducted at Saskatoon, Sask., on alkali soils, we found that the forage crop most tolerant of alkali soils were sweet clover, slender wheat grass, brome grass and crested wheat grass in the order named. Slender wheat grass is the grass that is commonly called western rye grass in the West. Since the soils very considerably, we have considered it a good policy to seed a mixture of two or three of these species rather than any one of them alone. Equal quantities of slender wheat grass, brome grass, sweet clover, using 6 or 7 pounds of each per acre in a mixture, often proves very satisfactory. If the land is wet and only very slightly alkali, it may grow timothy and alfalfa. These species will thrive under better conditions than those mentioned above.

Good mature grass is one of the best to use on land where the water lies in the spring, or land which is subject to flooding for several weeks each year. Unfortunately, it is quite sensitive to alkali, and for this reason may not suit the purpose.

Brush Cutter Ideas

I understand there is a V-type scrub cutter in use in your district that is run ahead of the tractor. I have a scrub cutter from which the wheel was removed about ten years ago and then a fire run over it. The stump is quite short. Do you think one of these cutters with a 2 1/2 in. Model 1 Case tractor would make such scrub economically? What size scrub cutter would you advise for this tractor? Who makes these cutters and about what do they cost? Would the story have a serious drawback or is it not necessary to have the rubber blades very sharp? I shall be grateful for all information you can give me on this. J. L. P. Gilbert, Plains, Man.

Note: Will readers kindly contribute their experience and ideas to the Superintendent?

Japanese Boy Likes G. P. District Very Much

Masakazu Kikawa of Kobe, Japan, who for the past three years has been on the Cranberry Ranch at Dinsdale, left on Tuesday night's train for home. The object of his stay in this country was to study western agricultural methods. During the three years he built several Japanese gardens around the home on the ranch. Kikawa, in conversation with the Tellico reporter Monday, said he liked this country very much, especially the summer. "The winter, what you say? Oh, yes, not so hot!"

The large fields and the modern farm machinery especially appealed to the visitor. Another thing that he liked very much was the live stock on the ranch and he said he would return to Japan with new ideas in how to feed live stock. Kikawa compared the show method of farming in his country, where the grain is cut with a scythe and bound by hand, with the machine method of farming in this country. He stated that wheat is grown in the winter in Japan, which is followed by rice crops. In answer to a question put by the reporter, Kikawa said that the Japanese believe that if they die fighting for their country they will go to heaven. The two young consular army trainees he said, was not looked upon as a hardship by the young men of his country.

supplementary value of milk depends upon its unique calcium content, on the quality of its protein and its fat, and to some extent on its contained vitamins. The chief vitamins found in milk are those known as A and B. The former is essential for both growth and maintenance. The fate of milk are the most important source of vitamin A in the diets of Canadian people. It is probable that 90% of this vitamin is removed in the process of skimming.

Lack of vitamin B in a given milk predisposes the child to infection. Vitamin C is found in cows' milk in proportion to the quantity of green food the cows have. Its value is in the prevention of scurvy.

In the use of cows' milk as that of other mammals as a food for children there are at least two essentials. The milk must be modified to suit the age of the child and it must be pasteurized or boiled in order to eliminate certain disease liable to be carried by this fine article of food.

Questions concerning health addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

HALCOURT NEWS

Halcourt Picnic Goes Over With A Real Bang!

HALCOURT, June 21.—Did we have a good afternoon or did we? Horse shoes, softball, basketball and tug of war, etc., were enjoyed to the limit.

The boundaries of four districts between the Red Willow and Spring Creek were decided on. This includes part of Millarville on the range line between the Red Willow and Spring Creek. Also a new area west of the creek to take in part of the old Aspen.

Mr. Walker also explained at length the proposed amalgamation of 76 districts. At the conclusion a vote was taken and with the exception of Capt. Bob Campbell all were in favor. Capt. Campbell expressed the opinion that the amalgamation would have the same or even greater difficulty in collecting taxes. Should this be so, the larger unit would be unable to operate. This point appears to be one of great importance.

The chief points of benefit under the new scheme appear to be:

1. Provision of essential medical service to the children from birth to fourteen years of age.

2. Teachers' salaries would be paid by the province, thus relieving the present lack of system in our rural school education children left school entirely untrained for life, both physically and mentally.

3. It would be possible to set up rural high schools and vocational training centres.

Mr. Roland Young in a well-directed speech pointed out the advantages of the present lack of system in our rural school education children left school entirely untrained for life, both physically and mentally.

The larger unit would provide of medical and physical training for the rural child should be of great benefit to Alberta.

New Weed Killer Proves Successful In Peace River

Remarkable Implement Invention Is Tested And Approved By Dominion Experimental Station And Local Farmers.

An implement which pulls weeds on an entirely new principle has recently been tested by the Dominion Experimental Station at Swift Current. In view of the increasing seriousness of the weed problem in Peace River country, and the excellent results apparently secured by this weeder, the following, taken from the Swift Current Station's official report is interesting:

"Early in Spring of 1935 the River-side Iron Works of Calgary, Alberta, placed on this station for test their 'Mills Wire Weeder'. Throughout the working season of 1935, field trials were made under as great a variety of conditions as possible. This machine is composed of several heavy cables on a drum which is driven in the direction of ground travel at a slow speed. The forward motion of the implement, Penetration is secured by the weight of the operator on a seat arranged to give leverage as well as a depth regulating lever. The rotary motion of the cable drum aids in penetrating to the required depth even in very hard, surface-worked summerfallow. During the trials complete weed killing was effected on all types of summerfallow land. The land is left in a smooth condition with the trash and destroyed weeds on the surface after working."

"It is more effective in hard surface working than is the red weeder, due to its ability to penetrate under adverse conditions."

"No mechanical troubles were encountered. The boxings are sturdy and non-sifting, thus eliminating a very troublesome difficulty with most machines which results in a continuous fog of pulverized dirt. The boxings are very easily and cheaply replaced. Drive chains are sturdy and easily adjustable. The cables or wires on the drums are of very heavy construction and have stood up well, even on stony land."

"The manufacturers of this weeder report that several Mills Weeders have been sold in the Peace River country and that all are giving excellent results."

Ronnie Blazevic, who recently bought a cheap horse at a sale, states that the horse ate straw as though it was chaff, while similar suffering material was first given to him.

SOIL DRIFTING
 W. Sharpe, M.L.A., recently stated to a road delegation from here that the prospects are good for a law to be passed forbidding land owners from clearing a two-acre strip of bush on the west side of each quarter section. Mr. Sharpe was of the opinion that it would be better to leave this two-acre strip on the east side, thus providing a good shelter for the roads. Better still, two rods both east and west. Twenty or even fewer acres from such a law will be looked upon as the wisest piece of legislation passed by any Alberta government.

An instance of how easily these lighter bush soils can drift was seen this morning when the great deal of the top soil blew off a farm here, from a heavy wind. It is noted with regret that on two other farms clearing is being done right to the west side.

ATTEND SCHOOL MEETING AT ASPEN RIDGE
 Representatives from here attended a meeting at Aspen Ridge school addressed by Mr. L. A. Walker, the district school inspector.

The boundaries of four districts between the Red Willow and Spring Creek were decided on. This includes part of Millarville on the range line between the Red Willow and Spring Creek. Also a new area west of the creek to take in part of the old Aspen.

 Alberta's highway graveling program for this season has been launched, contracted for 170 miles of main roads having been awarded, according to an announcement by Hon. W. F. Falgout, Minister of Public Works. No sooner had the provincial legislature passed the 1937-38 budget than the province embarked upon its graveling program. It is expected that this will be extended from time to time.

The program includes considerable graveling in the southern part of the province. Between Macleod and Waterton Lakes a 61-mile stretch will be gravelled, while similar surfacing material will be laid on a 112-mile stretch between Okotoks and High River.

In the north, the program includes a 50-mile stretch of the Peace River Highway from Lesser Slave Lake westward.

The program also takes in a 47-mile stretch of the Peace River Highway from McLennan to Peace River town.

It is expected that the Dominion government will consent to sharing in the cost of the work on a 50-50 basis. A list of the projects has been forwarded to Ottawa for approval.

"This is good news. We have been urging the importance for years of the weather highways and hope that they are merely paving the way for hard surface roads," said an official of the Alberta Motor Association.

GIVE U.F.A. SPEAKER RAPID ATTENTION

Quite a few local people attended the U.F.A. speaker, who held his session at Halcourt bridge. The chief speaker of the afternoon was Robert Gardiner, president of the U. F. A., who was listened to with rapid attention as he dealt masterfully with economic problems as they affect the farming industry. Apart from a shower preceding the church service, it was a delightful afternoon for a picnic.

Halcourt district people are to be congratulated on successful such picturesque picnic grounds, which are being preserved in their natural state.

A large company of ladies of the district met at Broadway last Saturday afternoon to honor Mrs. J. A. Mitchell, who is leaving the district shortly, also for Miss E. J. A. The ladies were presented with lovely linen tablecloths as a slight token of the esteem in which they are held by everyone in the community.
